GANS WINS BY A FOUL

avoiding Nelson's onslaughts, and met Nelson with a right swing over the eyes. He then swung right and left to Nelson's face and found no trouble in keeping away from Nelson's swings. Gans played with the Dane, sending in a raking right to jaw and then worked a left shift to face. Nelson swung desperately for Gans' face, but seldom got the black man's anatomy. They closed in mixing it roughly. Gans swung his right and left with fearful force and Nelson slipped to his knees. He got up in a jiffy and Gans went at him like a demon and landed almost at will. The gong was a great relief to Nelson, and he appeared groggy, when he fell into his seat.

Round Nine—It was Gans' round.

Round Ten—The bell rang with Nelson having a shade the best of a most vicious round. Gans looked worried as he was being worked on by his handlers.

Round Eleven—If anything Nelson had a slight lead in this round.

Round Thirteen—Nelson rushed Gans back with two left and two right swings to the face. At close quarters Nelson upper cut with left and right to mouth and a moment later swung left to the mouth bringing blood again from Gans' mouth. Both men resorted to wrestling tactics, Gans being the chief offender. The negro, however had a shade the best of the round when the bell clanged.

Round Fourteen—Both men fought to close quarters, but very few blows were landed in a long shoulder to shoulder contest. Gans sent Nelson against the ropes by sheer force of his weight. Nelson fell back through the ropes and Gans chivalrously pulled him back to the ring. As a reward for this act of courtesy the Dane smashed Gans on the body and the crowd yelled its disapproval. At the close of the round Nelson kicked at Gans and the latter promptly retaliated in kind. The belligerents had to be separated by the handlers.

Round Fifteen—Round fifteen opened with a clinch and Nelson butted and elbowed Gans plainly. He was warned to desist by Referee Siler and the seconds yelled foul in unison. No attention was paid to the claim and the men roughed it at close quarters. Nelson forcing Gans against the ropes. Nelson in the break away was sent to the floor with a right straight to the face. Nelson looked a bit shaky as he got to his feet and immediately went to close quarters to protect himself from further long distance swats. The crowd cheered Gans lustily as he went to his corner.

Round Sixteen—Nelson missed a left and right swing. Gans landing away. Gans tried to keep Nelson at a distance, but Nelson followed Gans about the ring, trying to land some vicious right swings. Gans whipped his right to the jaw and Nelson wrestled Gans about the ring. Gans holding on. Nelson scored with a stiff right to face and once more they leaned against one another. Gans wrestled Nelson clear through the ropes and in falling Gans pulled the negro after him. They were pushed back into the ring and immediately resumed their wrestling tactics. In the mix Nelson drove his right twice to the face and a right to the mouth at close quarters and sent Joe to his corner with blood streaming from his mouth as the bell rang. Nelson had the best of this round.

Round Seventeen—Both men rested on their oars for some time and the round ended with honors a bit in Nelson's favor.

Round eighteen was tame with no advantage to either fighter.

Round nineteen was slow and there was more wrestling than fighting done. Derogatory comments were passed around the ringside.

Round Twenty—The men rushed together and Siler grabbed Nelson by the head, indicating that the Dane should cease boring in with his head. Gans straightened Nelson up with two lefts to the jaw and Nelson landed several lefts to the body. In a clinch Nelson landed a severe left upper cut to the jaw and they mixed it. Gans putting rights and lefts to the jaw. He followed his advantage and sent in a volley of right and left swings to the jaw, as the round ended. The gong apparently came just in time to save Nelson from defeat. Gans had the lead.

Round Twenty-one—Gans had a shade the better of this round.

Round Twenty-two—Both men loafed in this round, until the last, when Gans landed twice with his right to the Dane's jaw, following up his advantage with two powerful left jolts to Nelson's head.

Round Twenty-three—It was the Dane's round.

Round Twenty-four—Nelson had a shade the best of this round.

Round Twenty-five—Gans was a bit worsted early in the round, but had the better of the close, when he rallied strongly.

Round Twenty-six—Nelson forced Gans to the ropes, but could not penetrate Gans' marvelous defense while in dangerous positions. They wrestled about the ring, Gans resting up. Both men seemed tired.

Round Twenty-seven—It was an even round, with both men tired.

Round Twenty-eight—It was all Gans' round.

Round Twenty-nine—The negro had the best of this round.

Round Thirty—Gans put in a right upper cut to Nelson's mouth and the Dane missed several vicious left and right swings for the jaw. As the bell rang Nelson deliberately hit Gans and the crowd went to its feet in a storm of protest.

Round Thirty-one—It was Gans' round.

Round Thirty-two—The gong brought relief to Nelson, and saved him from almost sure defeat.

Round Thirty-three—This was all Gans' round. Both men were very weak as the gong rang. Nelson for the first time showed great weariness.

Round Thirty-four—At the close of the round Nelson appeared very tired. Gans seemed the fresher of the two.

Round Thirty-five—The bell closed a very slow and tiresome round, with few blows landed by either fighter.

Round Thirty-six—Honors were about even in this round.

Round Thirty-seven—In this round Gans woke up the crowd by catching Nelson at long distance and putting in several hard rights and lefts to the face. Then came the bell and a rest.

Round Thirty-eight—It was a case of both men seeking rest and the fight seemed to be almost a wrestling match to the spectators.

Round Thirty-nine—Nelson's left eye is entirely closed and he appears to be tiring rapidly.

Round Forty—The men did very little fighting in this round. Gans complained again about Nelson's "butting" tactics. The round ended with Nelson receiving a left uppercut to the jaw.

Round Forty-one—They came up slowly and clinched. Gans asked Billy Nolan facetiously, "What time is it?" Then they resumed the clinching contest. Both men wrestled wearily about the ring and it was hard to tell which was the more tired of the two as the gong sounded.

Round Forty-two—As they broke from a clinch Nelson deliberately struck Gans low and the colored man slowly sank to the floor. The blow was clearly observed by every one in the arena and there was not a murmur of dissent from the spectators as the long drawn out battle was terminated.

Day after day The Astorian Want-Columns show a procession of opportunities—opportunities to buy, to sell, to lease, to hire, to find people to work for you, to find people to work for, to find boarders, lodgers, tenants, or parties. The want ad opportunities touch almost all phases of life and living in the city.

INVESTED AT UNION.

UNION, Or., Sept. 3.—The preliminary steps toward the construction of a packing-house, cannery, vinegar factory and fruitdrier at Union are being taken today. The parties behind the scheme are the Lassalle Bros., of Albany, Or., assisted by local capital. Considerable money has already been raised, and it is thought there is no doubt about the balance. The new plant will be combined with the fruitdrier already here, and will be one of the most complete institutions of the kind in the State. The new plant will be worth thousands of dollars every year to this section, aside from the advantages arising from the payroll that goes with such an enterprise.

Pain from a Burn Promptly Relieved by Chamberlain's Pain Balm.

A little child of Michael Straus of Vernon, Conn., was recently in great pain from a burn on the hand and as cold applications only increased the inflammation Mr. Straus came to Mr. James N. Nichols, a local merchant, for something to stop the pain. Mr. Nichols says: "I advised him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and the first application drew out the inflammation and gave immediate relief. I have used this liniment myself and recommend it very often for cuts, burns, strains and lame back, and have never known it to disappoint." For sale by Frank Hart and Leading Druggists.

ON BANKER'S TRAIL
Wrecker of Chicago Bank on Way to Morocco.
CAPTURE NOW SEEMS CERTAIN

Defaulting Bank President Will Soon Be in Morocco, Where He Will Be Arrested and Brought Back.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—A cable to the Tribune from Gibraltar says: Paul O. Stensland, president and the wrecker of the Milwaukee Avenue State bank, left Gibraltar for the Eastern Coast of Africa yesterday afternoon, just one hour and forty minutes before the representative of the Tribune and Assistant States Attorney Olsen arrived after trailing him from America to England, thence to Gibraltar to Tangier, Morocco, back to Gibraltar and, thence to Ronda, where he saw a bull fight, to Bohadella, Granada, Seville and other Spanish towns.

Stensland is traveling under the alias of P. Olsen of Norway. Either Stensland is absolutely sure that he is not being followed, or he has become extremely careless, for he is leaving a wide trail.

"We leave here today on a private torpedo boat and will either come up with the quarry in 24 hours or arrive at the farthest point ahead of the fugitive.

Gunnere, the American minister to Morocco, is on the watch and the moment he receives instructions from the State Department will send a detail of the Sultan's troops to take him. Stensland chose Morocco as a permanent residence, because there is no extradition treaty with that country.

The Sultan at Fez, to whom Mr. Gunnere is going on his first official mission in two weeks, will do anything for President Roosevelt. The mere matter of throwing a man in jail and keeping him there indefinitely is so small a request that it is granted before it is asked. Two weeks in a Moorish prison would make a man willing to go anywhere else.

"If Stensland decides to return peacefully well and good, otherwise, one of the United States warships will be in Gibraltar in ten days, probably will cross to Tangier, the fugitive will be thrown on board and headed for Chicago.

The bank wrecker is on the German tramp steamer Oldenburg.

The fact that he thinks he is not being followed is shown by the directions he left at the Grand Hotel, telling the clerk where to forward his mail for the next two months. He figured on spending the month of October at Tenerife on the Canary Islands. He has some friend in London for he ordered his mail set to the Metropole hotel.

"If he should elude capture for the next few days he will come to a sudden halt in his travels because of a lack of money. We discovered that he had left $12,000 in a bank at Tangier. Steps have been taken by Assistant States Attorney Olsen to tie this money up, and if possible restore to the swindled depositors.

"It was the old story of the woman scorned that led to the finding of Stensland's trail. One of his numerous friends who thought she had been shabbily treated, put the Tribune into the possession of the first hint of his whereabouts. Her information was indefinite, but investigation proved its probable accuracy. Finally, on August 13, it became certain that he was in Tangier, and had been for sixteen days. He fled from Chicago on Sunday, July 12, went direct to New York and took the White Star boat sailing on Tuesday for Liverpool and stayed in that town two days."

APPEARANCES

Often a person is sized up by his appearance; by the tone that surrounds him. And more often a business house is sized up by the stationary it uses. A cheap letter head or a poor bill head gives a mighty poor first impression and makes business harder to transact. Good printing costs no more than poor printing. The first impression is half the battle in business. You wouldn't employ a "sloppy" salesman; why put up with "sloppy" stationery, that gives a wrong impression of the importance of your business. Let us do your printing and help you to make that ten strike.
